

POSTCARDS FROM THE EDGE FEST

FOR THE HUNDREDS OF PLAYERS WHO MADE IT TO FANFEST AND AWOKED AFTERWARDS THINKING IT WAS ALL SOME BIZARRE DREAM — IT WASN'T. TO PROVE IT, SOME TOOK PICTURES...

■ Sanche Tehkeli, Bionesis Technologies

"This guy is Midnighter of Electus Matari and this picture sums up my first pilgrimage to Reykjavik quite well: a place where you sit with your in-game friends and foes alike, have a beer, share considerations, have a beer, watch art movies, harass CCP Female Agents for moar... Also took a tour around to marvel at the unique landscapes of Iceland. I shall come back again! Hail to all the people I met there, see you next year."

Wish you were here!

■ Sam Bacon, KAOS

"While my real reason for going to Fanfest was to learn about EVE's past, present and future, the most I got out of it was meeting the people I see and shoot, hearing the stories and tales from another angle, and playing mini games such as drinking. After my ordeal last year I thought it was well worth the money... and Iceland doesn't seem cold at all. See you all next time."

■ Ashraaf, Infinite Improbability Inc

"This picture was taken at the start of the Fanfest PvP Tournament. This team was well organized and was preparing its fittings and going over the strategies before each match. The team members were even wearing the same tops, although I don't think the synchronised nail-biting was a planned tactic."

■ Elissen, Serenity Inc

"This has been my fifth Fanfest and at every one I have met new people and ended up drinking beer with my old enemies, fully knowing that when we're back home, all bets will be off and we will be shooting each other again. And knowing, of course, that in another 12 months we will be buying each other drinks again in Reykjavik."

■ Leandra Anor, HAVOC

"Fanfest is fast becoming a yearly tradition for me. I've loved meeting the people and hanging out with corpmates — HAVOC rocks! Fanfest is a place to put aside differences and see who the actual person is behind the avatar you might be fighting for, with, or against! It's about meeting the EVE legends and at times about making a new EVE legend. It's about seeing what the future of the game might be. Most of all though, Fanfest is about having fun in a beautiful place!"

I WENT TO FANFEST

AND ALL I GOT WERE THESE LOUSY CORPMATES
